DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the “right to exclude” granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-4 and 6-7 provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-5 of copending Application No. 11/186957. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they recite overlapping compositions of the form  $\text{RTO}_3$ , where R is a rare earth metal and T is a transition metal. The instant claims, unlike the '957 application claims, recite a specific NO adsorption domain. Similarly, the instant claims fail to recite the thermogravimetric weight loss properties of the '957 application claims. However, both limitations are properties inherent to the claimed compounds, which do not make the claims patentably distinct.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by any of Ogura, et al. (JP1142208), Matsumoto, et al. (JP1307452), and Abe, et al. (JP5184929). All three references teach a perovskite-type catalyst compounds that can be represented by the formula  $\text{RTO}_3$ . The references do not disclose the NO adsorption domain of the instant claims. However, this is an inherent property of the compounds. Therefore, the compounds are not patentably distinct from the prior art.

Regarding claims 2-3, all three references give examples overlapping the claimed compounds. Ogura gives several examples in which R comprises La and Sr; and T comprises Mn, Co, and Fe. Matsumoto gives an example in which R comprises La and T comprises Co. Abe claims compounds in which R comprises combinations of La with Sr, Ba, or Ca; and T comprises Mn, Fe, and Co.

Regarding claims 4-10, all three references teach the use of the compounds described above as catalysts in particulate matter filters for diesel exhaust oxidation. Limitations requiring combustion of particulate matter below 450° C are inherent properties of the compounds and, therefore, do not make the claims patentably distinct from the prior art.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Golden (U.S. Patent No. 6,352,955) teaches fabrication methods for compounds that overlap those of the instant claims which do not involve sodium compounds.
